I spent about an hour in this Institution. I wish I should record my impressions in Sanscrit the language in which form of the Students gave me so much pleasure by their correct and short lectures in Tarka-Sat protipaksha, and Bhagavat gita. The latter particularly, was a very intelligent and accurate exposition. The library attached is a very useful Institution. The College, as well as the Library, seems to be in want of more space and the Head Master told me that there were two Almirahs available but that they required repair. If the Hon'ble Mr will make a representation the matter will receive consideration in the Municipal Dept. These Institutions are a very good appendage to the famous and historical Temple of Puri which attracts many devotees from the various parts of India and certainly deserves support at the hands of those who have the management of the Temple.
